

CORONAVIRUS RESPONSE PLAN

The safety of your employees and product are of utmost importance. Below are some recommendations to help keep your people and operation safer and healthier in the midst of this outbreak. Reach out to your Wesmar rep to get more information, training and product recommendations, including sanitation program development, hand hygiene training, hand cleaners and sanitizers, disinfectant products, and general help refreshing employees on proper practices.

HOW SHOULD YOU RESPOND?

While the general response of the public should be in line with CDC recommendations (found at cdc.gov), Wesmar's recommendations to food processing plants in responding to and preventing viral and pathogenic infections are as follows:

PROPER GOOD MANUFACTURING PRACTICES (cGMPs)

- Attention to the Personnel section of CFR 21 Part 117
 - Keep sick employees separated and home
 - Personal hygiene practices
 - Hand hygiene practices

PROPER CLEANING AND SANITATION PRACTICES

- Adhere to a robust cleaning and sanitation program
- Use appropriate cleaners and sanitizers for environmental cleaning in wet and dry areas of your plant
- Keep air systems clean and sanitized. Consider utilizing misting units to circulate appropriate sanitizers through your systems and plant
- Keep hand cleaning and sanitizing stations in all high-traffic areas
- Clean and disinfect high-touch/high-traffic areas regularly - break rooms, bathrooms, front offices, common areas, living quarters, doorknobs, handrails, etc.

ADDITIONAL DISINFECTANT STEP WHEN NECESSARY

- Use an EPA registered disinfectant to respond to specific incidents and situations in conjunction with normal sanitation steps
